Oil Prices

Oil continues to be hit on both the demand and supply side. The Coronavirus outbreak has led to softer demand for crude while a breakdown in Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) talks means there could soon be a supply glut as Saudi Arabia gets set to ramp up production to a record 13 million barrels per day.

However, global oil prices rose by over 5% for some hours on Friday, 13 March 2020, after President Donald Trump announced that the US Department of Energy would purchase crude for the nation's Strategic Petroleum Reserve (SPR).
